

Tir Na Beatha: Chaos at Cri Chnuas Market

November 30, 2025 - Session 3

Outline

Journey to Cri Chnuas

- Exploder, Koldea, and Themaer traveled by boat along Cleverclaw Creek.
- They aimed to secure weapons and traps against goblin raids.
- The Triton Ferryman piloted them through caverns to the city.

Market Interactions

- The party entered the Scaled Market and encountered goblin and tabaxi merchants.
- They attempted to barter textiles but faced refusals and mislabeling of goods.
- Koldea took a love potion without payment after testing it.

Conflict at the Ember-Belly Inn

- The party met Spark Scale and learned about Malachite's past actions.
- A wild magic surge caused dust mephits to attack patrons.
- The party fought the mephits, with Exploder knocking out a drake.

Plans for the Future

- Spark Scale provided a map to the Hidden Citadel.
- The party planned to pursue Malachite and trade relics for support.
- They prepared for their next steps in the adventure.

Session Summary

The session began with Exploder, a kenku, Koldea, a kobold, and Themaer Eagerflower, a firbolg, traveling by boat along Cleverclaw Creek toward the kobold city of Cri Chnuas. They aimed to secure weapons and traps to combat goblin raids affecting firbolg settlements. Upon arrival, they encountered a goblin guard and a merchant caste of goblins, who were effectively exiles permitted to trade. Exploder used his mimicry to distract the guard while Themaer pilfered a crate of mushrooms, marking it for future reference.

In the Scaled Market, the party interacted with two merchants: Snarl-Dreg, a goblin, and Nala, a tabaxi. They attempted to barter textiles for goods but faced refusals. Koldea tested a claimed explosive that turned out to be a love potion, which she took without payment. Snarl-Dreg hinted at needing to speak with Spark Scale, the proprietor of the Ember-Belly Inn, for better gear.

At the inn, they met Spark Scale, who provided information about Malachite, an eladrin who had caused trouble in the past. A sudden surge of wild magic led to the appearance of dust mephits, resulting in a chaotic battle. The party fought off the mephits, with Themaer healing a wounded elf and Exploder knocking out a drake named Ruddy Cheeks McGee. After the fight, the drake revealed that Malachite had passed through Cri Chnuas and was headed toward the Hidden Citadel.

Spark Scale offered a trade for relics from the citadel and provided a map to its location. The session concluded with the party planning to pursue Malachite and trade relics for support and gear, preparing for their next steps in the adventure.

MOMENT

Themaer and Allies Battle the Dust Methods

The alehouse buzzes with tension as patrons cower beneath tables, the air thick with dust and magic. Exploder leaps onto the bar, launching three glowing missiles that hit a dust method. Themaer and Koldea coordinate to defeat the last fiends. With a final crash, the last dust method falls, and the twilight elves sigh in relief, their safety restored. "Together, we are unstoppable."

MOMENT

A Chaotic Welcome at Ember-Belly Inn

The Ember-Belly Inn fills the air with roasted cave peppers and Cinderblast ale. Spark Scale, the one-eyed kobold, serves drinks as tritons, tabaxi, wood elves, and a goliath chat. Ruddy Cheeks McGee brushes against a wood elf, causing laughter. Engage with the crowd or find a quiet corner. The inn's warmth invites exploration. Every corner holds a story waiting to be told.

MOMENT

Arrival at the Scaled Market

The trio glides through Cleverclaw Creek with the Triton Ferryman at the helm. Water laps against stone walls as they approach the driftwood docks beneath the Scaled Market. The Triton announces, "Matriarchs Rest." Will they explore the vibrant market or stay in the boat, absorbing the sights and sounds of Cri Chnuas? Adventure awaits just beyond the docks.

Conflict with Dust Mephits

- The party was at the Ember-Belly Inn when wild magic surged, summoning dust mephits.
- Themaer cast Sacred Flame but missed, and the mephit clawed him, drawing blood.
- Exploder cast Magic Missile, severely injuring a mephit, while Koldea attempted to strike a drake.
- The party ultimately defeated the dust mephits, with Themaer finishing the last one off.

Confrontation with Ruddy Cheeks McGee

- The party engaged with Ruddy Cheeks McGee after defeating the dust mephits.
- Themaer cast Bane on the drake, weakening it, while Koldea attempted to grapple it.
- Exploder urged Themaer to deliver a nonlethal blow, knocking the drake unconscious.
- Afterward, the drake revealed information about Malachite, linking it to the eladrin.

Key Entities

Cri Chnuas: The kobold city served as the destination for the party's trade mission and was accessible only via creek tunnels.

Ruddy Cheeks McGee: A drake that became agitated during the session and was later knocked unconscious by the party.

Nala: A tabaxi merchant who refused to barter with the party and claimed to sell superior goods.

Spark Scale: The one-eyed kobold and owner of the Ember-Belly Inn who provided crucial information about Malachite.

Snarl-Dreg: A goblin merchant who attempted to sell the party mis-labeled goods and provided information under duress.

Hidden Citadel: An ancient ruin in the Wellandrym Vale where the party plans to pursue Malachite.

Exploder

A kenku who mimicked sounds and used his abilities to distract enemies. He successfully knocked out the drake, Ruddy Cheeks McGee, without killing it.

- Used Prestidigitation to create a foul smell near a goblin merchant's stall.
- Cast Magic Missile twice, severely injuring dust mephits during combat.

Koldea

A kobold who carried a conch-shell Morningstar and had a history tied to a fey bargain. She took a mis-labeled love potion from Snarl-Dreg without paying.

- Recalled her fey bargain with Malachite, which cost her innate magic.
- Attempted to grapple Ruddy Cheeks McGee during the fight, but was unsuccessful.

Themaer Eagerflower

A firbolg textile worker who participated in the trade mission to secure weapons and traps. He cast healing spells during the chaos at the inn.

- Pried open a crate to find edible mushrooms and pocketed one.
- Cast Cure Wounds on a wounded twilight elf, aiding in their recovery.

NOTABLE ITEMS

Item	Description
Conch-Shell Morningstar	Koldea wielded this weapon, which is a symbol of her kobold heritage and combat prowess.
Love Potion	A mis-labeled potion taken by Koldea, which was actually a weaker Charm Person potion.
Map to the Hidden Citadel	Spark Scale provided this crude map to guide the party toward their next objective.
Knots	The silk-like currency used in Cri Chnuas, which the party utilized for transactions.
Edible Mushrooms	Mushrooms found by Themaer in a crate, favored by kobolds and potentially useful for trade.

Valuable Information

1. Cri Chnuas is accessible only via creek tunnels and serves as the kobold capital.
2. Malachite, an eladrin with shifting tattoos, had previously stirred trouble in Cri Chnuas.
3. The party learned that most goblins live in Wargbarrow Woods, except for the merchant caste.
4. Spark Scale hinted that the best gear could be accessed through the Undercity.
5. Koldea's fey bargain with Malachite stripped her of her innate kobold magic.
6. Spark Scale offered 50 double knots per relic recovered from the Hidden Citadel.
7. The party plans to pursue Malachite at the Hidden Citadel to recover relics.

Party Status

The party is currently in the Ember-Belly Inn, having just dealt with a chaotic situation involving dust mephits and a drake.

- Themaer Eagerflower has healing spells available for injured patrons.
- Koldea possesses a mis-labeled love potion that may have utility.
- Exploder has marked a crate for future reference regarding goblin targets.

Next Steps

The party intends to pursue Malachite at the Hidden Citadel and trade relics for support and gear.